

Time for a good biological virus scanner for vaccinated people

When you tell people that they have a different goal in vaccinating than your health, they often start to sigh.

"There you have another idiot" they think, but practice shows that those idiots are not so crazy. A few days ago we published an article about a Russian hacker who showed how he hacked into a database containing all the real-time data of vaccinated people. In the same article we also showed a video of a man who was vaccinated with the AstraZeneca vaccine and how everywhere he went his body tried to make a bluetooth connection. In the context of what follows, hereby again the relevant (short) video.

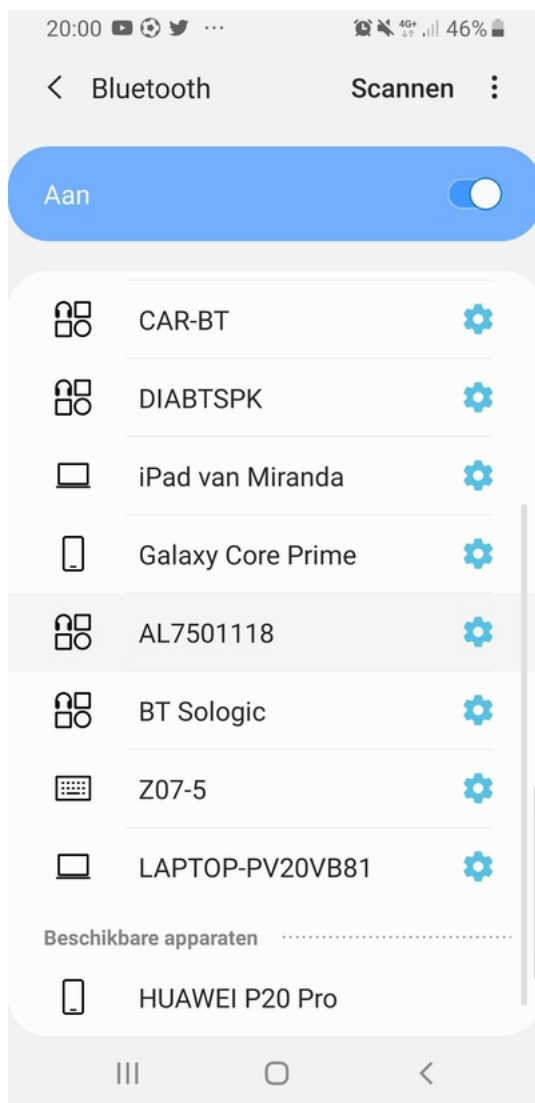

Based on the above video, we receive the following message from a loyal reader (thanks!):

After reading your article in which a video appears of a man who says that he reacts with bluetooth devices after receiving the Astrazeneca vaccine, I was very I became curious what the result would be if I scanned a group of people.

That opportunity comes up every day when picking up our kids from school, so that's where I started scanning the lawn. Unfortunately I wasn't the first to properly test it, but the result was a whole list of strange addresses, no phones or anything like the icon in front of it.

Some doubt in my mind, because I know that the school also has chromebooks that could broadcast that signal.

In the evening I tested her phone with my sister to see how a phone that you have never been paired with appears, as Huawei P20 Pro in this case. Everything else in that same shot is devices in our home, or in the car, and as you can see, each device has its own icon for what it is.

Just now, at 11:45 am it was time to get the kids again, and I wanted to try to be there first to get a correct measurement.

I walk up the square to the lawn, and am the first. I scan the first time, and find 2 so-called devices, this can explain all the teachers in the kindergarten. Nonsense you would think, but it gets even more fun. If those chromebooks in school were broadcasting a signal, I should have seen them now.

After a few minutes more parents arrive, and I do another scan, with the following result:

I can hardly believe it, because there are more as more parents join, all with the icon of a device, so no phone, tablet, headset. The moment there are quite a few parents, I have to scroll to see them all. This cannot possibly be any chromebooks in the school, because they simply do not appear.

If this theory is correct, then what the hell is the use of a Bluetooth chip in a human being?

And what about the number of doses from a bottle of vaccine? Were not 6 doses taken out? How can every vaccine contain a bluetooth chip?

It's bizarre, and confusing at the same time if you think about it, but where do those devices just come from, when only people are standing there? They are not telephones, because they have a different icon.

Bizarre times, and bizarre things that happen.

If there is someone in your editorial team who could explain this, please even, because it gets weirder by the day when you read and follow everything.

In addition, as always, the biggest compliments for your great website, a loyal reader for many years, and that you may continue to do so for a long time to inform us as readers.

Editor: Some time later, a second message follows:

Your articles indeed point to what my phone confirms. DNA would also be hackable if it happened at the same frequency, because every DNA is different, and people can therefore already be hacked.

By the way, I mail this from a parking lot where my kids are swimming, and after a round through the local Coop supermarket just now, of course with the Bluetooth scanner on, the number of devices that my phone found increased faster and faster, to max 16 in my screen. Find the vaccinated. It's so bizarre that all this is possible, and people will hardly believe it themselves. People have indeed turned into walking antennas, and I wonder what will happen if 5G is completely active everywhere, and evil forces take over there.

That zombie apocalypse is already happening, because I also notice more and more people trudging through a store in a daze, and also more and more people in traffic who just don't seem to be paying attention. (Editor: we noticed this too, especially in traffic) The powers behind the scenes have done it, they are proud of their puppets. Their new hoax, the Delta Variant, will cause the new panic, although those victims will largely consist of vaccinated people who will now succumb.

We can start preparing for things that we have only seen in movies until now, such as World War Z, or I Am Legend.

Editors: When we asked him if he had already tried to pair with such a strange device, the following message came:

I tried that several times, but then I get this, in attached screenshot.

My neighbor also asked about it, she hoped they could be controlled then, haha. But what 5G cannot do in this phone, 5G can undoubtedly do.

I really see a jet-black future for many vaccinated people, I've had that feeling for a while.

The hope in an awake fellow population is gone, those who are awake are saved, but the rest...

So much for the reader's story.

Then his question about a bluetooth chip in a jar of vaccination fluid.

People often still think in terms of microchips that would be necessary for "chipping" people, but that has long since become obsolete .

There is no doubt that it is all possible.

Read the article we published this weekend you know exactly how it works.

In this article there is a link, in the next piece of txt, which refers to another earlier article and that is the following:

"As we explained earlier in an article, there is also a method to microprocessors through DNA manipulation of your cells. in which your DNA itself functions as an antenna."

This seems to be yet another visible effect and an indication that there is much more in the corona vaccines than we are told, such as the people who suddenly become magnetic in the place where they have been vaccinated.

When finally all explainable things are explained, then the inexplicable things remain, like the magnets in vaccinated people. Despite all the stories of "fact checkers", they still stick with many vaccinated people and we know that first hand, so no stories via via.

Exactly as vaccinated people now ask, or make themselves available to your phone to be linked... You can dismiss all this, but how smart or stupid is that really (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mcGSUWyO6C8&feature=emb\_logo) ?
